

a creation unit for creating a new font on the basis of the plurality of handwritten characters,

*B1
cancel
subcl
enter* a selection unit for selecting the new font, wherein the selection unit is arranged to select the new font as the selected font in which the one or more display characters are displayed, and a display unit for displaying one or more display characters corresponding to respective ones of the recognized handwritten characters.

*subcl
B2
B3* 3. (Amended) Apparatus as claimed in claim 1, wherein the creation unit is arranged to create the font on basis of averaging over a number of handwritten characters and on the basis characteristics in this number of handwritten characters.

6. (Amended) System for transmission of handwritten input comprising:

*subcl
CH
B3* a transmitter having an input device for inputting a plurality of handwritten characters, a recognition unit for recognizing the plurality of handwritten characters and representing them as one or more respective character codes, a creation unit for creating a new font on the basis of the plurality of handwritten characters, a selection unit for selecting the new font, and transmission means for transmitting the one or more characters codes and a font identification of the selected font to a transmission medium; and a receiver having receiving means for receiving the one or more character codes and the font identification from the transmission

B3
amd.

medium and a display unit for displaying one or more display characters corresponding to respective ones of the character codes.

Sub
05
B4

8. (Amended) Transmitter for use in a system for transmission of handwritten input, the transmitter comprising an input device for inputting a plurality of handwritten characters, a recognition unit for recognizing the plurality of handwritten characters and representing them as one or more respective character codes, a creation unit for creating a new font on the basis of the plurality of handwritten characters, a selection unit for selecting the new font, and transmission means for transmitting the one or more characters codes and a font identification of the selected font to a transmission medium.

9. (Amended) Method of reproducing handwritten input, comprising the steps of:

Sub
06

inputting a plurality of handwritten characters,
recognizing the plurality of handwritten characters,
creating a new font on the basis of the plurality of handwritten characters, selecting the new font, and in the selected font displaying one or more display characters corresponding to respective ones of the recognized handwritten characters.
